Do you require your non-construction (auditor, accountant, IT, etc) vendors to carry insurance? If so, what kind and how much?

Responding that they do not require insurance: 6

Yes, we do require insurance from these types of vendors. Typically, either commercial general liability or professional liability. SAHA requests $1,000,000/$2,000,000 in coverage.

I sub contract to local remodeling subs and some do carry it and others don't, depends how big the project is.

Our auditor always has it listed in his packet. Never thought about the accountant

Commercial General Liability - $1,000,000, Automobile Liability $500,000 and Workers Comp

We require insurance if the contractor will be on our premises, but we prefer insurance on all contracts.

We require vendors to provide us with one million in liability insurance. We require either a contract which clearly stipulates the liability or an insurance document for all other affiliated companies/agencies.

Yes- liability, general-$1,000,000.

NO , because they usually or are required to carry general liability ,director and officers , and malfeasance /malpractice insurance by the professional organizations they are affiliated with.

Insurance is required of all vendors and contractor per our Procurement Policy and HACA must be added as an additional insurer. A minimum of $500,00 per occurrence for General Liability and Automobile Liability. Additionally, the Contractor shall obtain Worker's Compensation in accordance to State law.

We require E & O insurance.
